

Mr. Smith wreaks havoc

The Nintendo Wii™ console becomes a shooting range. With the SPEEDLINK® Mr. Smith Double Function Gun, shooter fans have full access to all Wii™ functions in the palm of their hand.

Weertzen, 16 November 2009 – SPEEDLINK®, one of Europe's leading brands of computer and multimedia accessories, presents a powerful handgun to date for the Wii. All the functions of the Nunchuk™ are integrated in the single-handed weapon – and once the Wiimote™ has been inserted, you can immerse yourself right in the action without the hassle of needing to remove it again. The crosshairs are moved using only the gun, giving you the feeling that you've got a laser targeter in your hands. Just line-up the notch and bead, and you won't fail to miss any longer. And if you get near the edge of the screen: you either automatically turn or you run in the direction you're pointing towards.

Mr. Smith Double Function Gun for the Wii™

Experience Wii shooter games like never before. Heated encounters will seem even more realistic thanks to the weight and robust construction of the gun. No more distracting Nunchuk™ – all its functions are integrated in the gun allowing you to hold it with both hands just like a real pro. The realistic targeting pointer and sprung trigger also give the feeling of pure action.

The SPEEDLINK Mr. Smith Double Function Gun for the Wii™ is available now across Europe for the RRP of €19.99.
